finish and trimmings must be considered. Do the garments and size marks agree? Are the shapes the latest and best? All these points were thought of here, and emphasized in our contract with the factories that furnish us the Underwear—the factories that have been furnishing us ever since we've been in business. We never were so well pleased with a stock of Underwear as this, and submit it as the best that can be done in this direction. Neatness and completeness characterize the entire stock. The shapes seem to be perfect, the materials are excellent, every garment is guaranteed to fit. It is difficult to see where any detail of manufacture could be improved upon. Many features of this great Underwear sale which begins tomorrow mark it as the Republicans and Two Democrats May Agree On Hawaii.

Committee Opposes the President's Policy-Two Reports Probable.

There are many reasons why the republinow engaged in investigating the Hawaiian matter, should be willing to compromis with two of the democratic members, tors Morgan and Butler, and unite in making a majority report that will be satisfactory to the opponents of the administration. Such a report, in the first place, would have the weight and prestige of being made by four-fifths of the subcommittee, leaving Mr. that of the President in a minority report of one. Then, too, it would have the ad vantage of presenting the appearance of being a perfectly non-partisan report, free from party prejudice, being signed by an equal number of republicans and democrats. Of course it would be difficult to arrange just the terms of such a report, for much would have to be conceded by each side, and much accepted by both that would be wholly unpalatable under ordinary circumstances Senators Morgan and Butler belong to that large faction in the Senate which is opposed to the President on so many policies that they are almost out of his sphere. They were in the minority in the great silver fight and thus found themselves opposing his recommendations. They lost no opportunity to declare their hostility to him, and especially their regret at his so-called disregard of the theories that are supposed to underlie the relations between the executive and the legislative branches of the government. Though neither of these Senators has so far expressed any open hostility toward the President in this particular matter, yet it is openly avowed by their friends that they are eager to find some way in which they can apply to him the screws that he put on the Senate last autumn during the silver struggle. large faction in the Senate which is opposed

The Republican Idea.

The main idea of the republican Senators n the subcommittee is to vindicate the course of President Harrison and Minister Stevens. They use all other phases of the controversy as stepping stones to this end Mr. Blount is of no consequence personally in the matter, as far as they are concerned They desire to save the republican prestige and to put the President in an awkward position. Yet they are willing, it is whispered, to forego some of the advantage of a complete indorsement of Mr. Stevens in this particular for the pleasure of a pointed slap at the President. They are, therefore, not averse to a pian that will combine the interests of the dissatisfied democrats with

A Compromise Report. Such a report might be outlined, there fore, on this basis, but on no other: Mr. Harrison's course to be accepted without comment and Mr. Stevens' tacitly rebuked for an excess of zeal, the appointment of Mr. Blount criticised as unwarranted and inprecedented, and the efforts of the Presdent to restore the queen characterized as eedless and impolitic, with a declaration that it is the sense of Congress that she that it is the sense of Congress that she should not be restored. Thus both republican and democratic prestige would be maintained, so far as the parties are concerned, while the party opponents of the President would be given the chance to disapprove of the course that he took on the ground that it was a personal cause, unwarranted by any action or theory of the democracy, and therefore not to be laid at the doors of the party. Of course such a step would be a serious one, and not to be taken without grave deliberation. The character of the two democratic Senators who would sign it two democratic Senators who would sign it suffices to disarm much of the opposition that it might incite. The fact that Mr. Gray has already placed himself on record as an advocate of the President's actions, and that he has expressed himself since the sub-committee began its sessions as of the opin-ion that nothing would be developed beyond the conclusions of Mr. Blount, makes it the easier for the other democrats to take the high ground of ruthless investigators, de-termined to uproot the truth of the case, regardless of the consequences.

Should this course be not adopted it would then be necessary for the two anti-adminiswould show the existence of factions in the cies would leave the republicans free to arraignment of the President, without ref-erence to his relations with his party. As mere party capital this report would, of course, be more valuable for the present moment to the republicans, but it would not have the weight or the value for the future that a compromise report would have, as the latter would be in the highest sense unpartisan and impartial.

FAILED TO SEE.

ast evening from Philadelphia, and in less than an hour's time he had succedded in making the fruit stand of Ellis George, on Pennsylvania avenue near 3d street, look as if a cyclone had struck it. William, with a friend, first went into Dismer's saloon near by and asked for something to eat, saying that he was hard up. He was referred to the lunch counter, the Philadelphia wanderer explained that a little bit of corn juice would reach the informed that it could be had on payment of the usual consideration, and proceeded to make known his disgust. Being requested to leave, he refused, and a scuffle ensued between the stranger, proprietor and employes.

Mr. Clark, upon being ejected, proceeded to vent his rage on the adjacent fruit stand of Mr. George, smashing his window, crushing his fruit and otherwise enacting the role of a high wind.

"Say, judge," explained William, "was yer ever tackled by a pack of wolves?"

"Never," gravely replied his honor,

"Well, den," continued Mr. Clark, "yer can't realize my position last night. See?"

The court could not quite see it, and William resumed the floor: "Well, yer honor, de hotel man jumped me, den de bloke 'hind de bar rapped me head wid a loafied cane an' in course I failed to git de decision. See?"

"But how about the fruit stand, Mr. Clark?" inquired the court.

"Well, yer see, judge," explained William, "me friend was drunk, an' yer know what sich a man is. I 'spose me friend run aginst de stand, an' in dat way de damage was done. See?"

Gardner and Luttrell Club. The Gardner and Luttrell Young Men's Democratic Club held a meeting last night their pariors, corner 19th and Pennsylvania avenue, to take action in regard to the death of Thos. J. Luttrell. A reso lution was read and passed providing:
"That we, the officers and members of the Gardner and Luttrell Young Men's Demo-Gardner and Luttrell Young Men's Demo-cratic Club, having been closely associated with the late Mr. Thos. J. Luttrell, have learned to love, esteem and recognize him as our able leader, counsel and adviser at all times, feeling we have lost a benefactor and ardent worker, whose place cannot be filled, we express our heartfelt sympathy with his family, and that a committee be appointed to attend the funeral and a copy of these resolutions be presented to his family."

Indications have been discovered that lead to the belief that Dr. Melville Bryant, who died in Brooklyn on December 24, had his death hastened by morphine and strychnine poisoning. There is damaging circumstantial evidence against his colored coachman, Robert Rose.

Mayor Pardee of Oakland, Cal., has a body guard, because of an alleged plot to blow guard, because of an alleged plot to blow nim up with dynamite.

COMPROMISE REPORT. Surgeon General Sternberg to Lecture Gen. George M. Sternberg, surgeon eral, U. S.
